Schwenk Tells Benefits of Urban Renewal

GOP Insurgents Still Ask for Korean Bonus

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Insurgent Republican legislators continued today to press for a Korean bonus over Gov. Rockefeller's objections.

But it appeared doubtful that the rank-and-file members would prevail in the long run against the combined opposition of the governor and legislative leaders.

Despite their enthusiasm for an election-year bonus to 500,000 ex-servicemen, one insurgent reported, the GOP lawmakers also were fully aware of the risks involved in breaking with the governor and party leaders on a major issue.

To obtain legislative approval for a bond issue to pay a Korean bonus, the Republican lawmakers would have to unite with Democrats and force the governor to surrender what he considers one of his major campaign issues—pay-as-you-go state financing. The insurgent spokesman, who declined to be identified, said he doubted the GOP bonus advocates would go this far.

The GOP members also would have to weigh the possibility that, having agreed to borrowing money to finance a bonus, they might be vulnerable to future demands to return to borrowing to finance other state programs.

This would be a breach in the long-standing Republican defense of pay-as-you-go against Democratic opposition.

The GOP lawmakers who chose to fight the governor on the bonus issue also would be endangering their prospects for help from the state administration and GOP organization in re-election campaigns, efforts at political advantage, and distribution of patronage.

In the bonus fight, the most powerful weapons are in the hands of the Governor and Republican leaders, who oppose a bonus on the ground that state needs should have priority to any new spending.

In the dispute over a Korean bonus, Upstate Republican lawmakers look to the payments as a way to overcome adverse reaction to the state administration's decision against a tax rebate this year.

The bonus would cost $100 million. Most advocates recommend the money be borrowed through a bond issue and repaid with a one-cent increase in cigarette taxes, now five cents a pack.

The one-cent increase would realize $25 million a year additional revenue, allowing repayment of the bonus bonds in four years.

A group of Republican senators advocating a bonus hold that the tax would be levied independently of the existing state revenue structure. A bonus financed in that fashion, they hold, would not divert revenues from existing state programs.

The Republicans expect to meet next week to determine the next step in the bonus debate.

A constitutional amendment would be necessary to authorize a bond issue. An amendment would require approval of the 1962 and 1963 Legislatures. Then voters would make the final decision in the November 1963 election.

Asks Help In Speech To Kiwanis

Covers Downtown, Uptown Sections

If urban renewal is to work in Kingston, said Mayor John J. Schwenk today in explaining the city's program to the Kiwanis Club, "it will have to be a refined product of the thinking of all of the citizens of this community."

Rehabilitation of downtown, he said, not only would add to assessed valuation in behalf of taxpayers, but the area, because of waterfront could be commercially and industrially beneficial.

Uptown, he held, needs "a general face-lifting" as well as added parking facilities and he reported "all possible" being done in dealing with an application for urban renewal assistance there. That business district, he said, should become "a convenient and attractive marketing center."

The mayor said:

Asks for Help

I'm glad to know that you men are community leaders, and I'm honored to be addressing this group, because, seriously, I intend to ask you to help me lead this community through a city-wide urban renewal program that I feel is of crucial importance to the future of Kingston.

Until recently, urban renewal in this city meant downtown and I'm afraid that most people who do not live in the "Broadway East" project area have had the attitude of, "so what does it mean to me?"

Hard on Taxpayers

Well, from a hard, dollars-and-cents point of view, the deterioration of downtown Kingston has caught every taxpayer of this community in an economic squeeze play.

If you'll analyze the reasons for the higher taxes you've been paying out over the last 10 years or so, you'll realize that part of the increase is a result of the tremendous reduction in assessed valuation in downtown Kingston.

Even though you may not live there, even though you may not be in business there, downtown Kingston is costing you money in higher taxes. The reason is simple—as assessed valuation decreases downtown, the tax burden is shifted to residential and business property owners in other parts of the city.

A depressed downtown keeps Kingston on a tax treadmill. It couldn't have happened if enough people cared.

The speaker never referred by name to Lane. Later, Lane said he agreed with the speaker that the Assembly vote had ended the matter.

Must Think of Reputation

Carlino said he respected the right of every member of the Assembly to express his opinion "freely and fully."

But, he added, such a right carried with it a "corresponding responsibility to respect the rights, the reputation, the stature and the standing of every other member of this chamber, regardless of how vigorously we may disagree."

In frequently, there are those among us who ... through ... inadvertence, inexperience or perhaps through misplaced judgment ... do not fully realize this responsibility which we all share."

The speaker never referred by name to Lane. Later, Lane said he agreed with the speaker that the Assembly vote had ended the matter.

Calls Report Biased

But Lane said on the floor that the committee report was biased. Lane had touched off the unprecedented investigation of the legislative leader by charging that Carlino had violated the state code of ethics by serving as a director of a fallout-shelter firm when the Legislature passed a bill to encourage the construction of such shelters.

The investigation was conducted by the Assembly Committee on Ethics, which held private and public hearings that ended with a statement by Gov. Rockefeller in Carlino's behalf.

The committee issued a report Tuesday that the speaker had not allowed his position as a com-

Report Only 3-Inch Fall, One Mishap

Heavy snow accumulation predicted by the weather bureau for Wednesday night did not materialize in this area, and only 2 to 3 inches of fresh snow was reported throughout Ulster County and parts of the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Only one serious traffic accident was reported during the storm. In the Town of Shawangunk, two persons were injured—one critically—in a one-car mishap.

Slippery at Times

Some highways throughout the county were slippery at times this morning when a light freezing rain fell on snow-covered roads. Most main arteries were plowed and sanded and traffic maintained at nearly normal pace. The Thruway lifted its 35 MPH limitation at 10 a.m. when all lanes were reported wet but clear.

Two U.S. Army Signal Corps men were injured, one critically at 1:30 a.m. today when the car in which they were riding skidded on slippery pavement on Albany Post Road in the Town of Shawangunk and crashed into a bridge abutment.

Highland State Police said the car, operated by Arthur Hurley, 38, of Grand Rapids, Mich., was traveling north on the highway when he skidded and struck the abutment about a mile from Walfkill Prison.

Hurley suffered a possible ruptured spleen, fractured ribs and possible internal injuries. His condition was described as critical at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

In Good Condition

Nathan S. Swiftrid, 21, of Valentine, Nebr., a passenger in the car suffered severe lacerations of the jaw, head injuries and a possible fracture of the left hand. His condition was de-

Can't Let It Spread

I'm interested in the future of Kingston, not the past, and I can't see a bright future for this city if we allow "Broadway East" to go by default, or if we permit the blight that has developed there to spread to other areas.

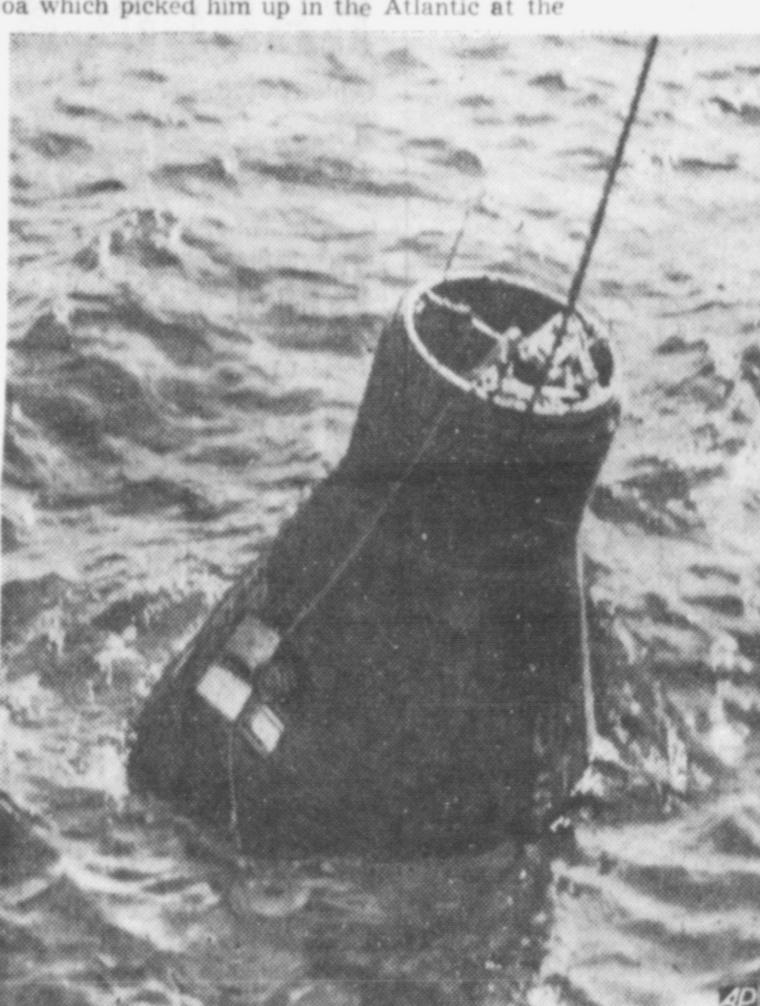

Last fall, when I was campaigning for the mayoralty, I spent quite a bit of time in the "Broadway East" project area. I went into many homes, and I suddenly realized that my eyes had been closed to a responsibility I should have accepted many years ago as a resident of this community.

Waste No Time, He Urges Nik Claims U. S. Will Offer New Ideas

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has challenged Soviet Premier Khrushchev to waste no time in proving he favors joint efforts to explore outer space.

"I think it is particularly important now, before space becomes devoted to uses of war," Kennedy said at his news conference Wednesday.

Quick Kennedy Reply

Khrushchev had sent a message congratulating the United States on Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.'s triple orbit of the globe and suggesting the two governments combine resources to explore outer space.

Less than four hours after the news conference the White House made public a direct reply to Khrushchev. In it Kennedy expressed hope "that at a very early date our representatives may meet, to discuss our ideas and yours in a spirit of practical cooperation."

He added the United States would come up with "new and concrete proposals" for joint enterprises that could be undertaken without delay.

Kennedy opened his news conference with a statement noting that twice before he had offered the same sort of proposition Khrushchev advanced. But the President called the Soviet premier's move an encouraging sign for international cooperation.

Still Probing Powers

Glenn's memorable flight and the possibility of U.S.-Soviet cooperation in space dominated the half-hour meeting with newsmen. But in answering questions Kennedy also disclosed a special board of inquiry is determining whether U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers violated the contract under which he made his ill-fated reconnaissance flight over the Soviet Union on May 1, 1960.

Government officials have interrogated Powers in secret ever since he was released Feb. 10 in a prisoner exchange with the Soviets.

Saved by Carpenter

His fellow astronaut and backup pilot, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm S. Carpenter, had been swimming with two unidentified skin divers who live on the island. One had dived to see how deep he could go without a supply of air.

Carpenter accompanied him down and said the main apparently became unconscious at the 80-foot depth, on his way up from 110 feet. Carpenter could not succeed in giving him his mouthpiece for air and pulled him to the surface, where Glenn, sitting in a boat, helped pull the man aboard.

Glenn was taking time out from physical examinations and giving details of his orbital flight to National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials. During the afternoon he went swimming in the Atlantic, accompanied by two physician friends.

Glenn today started the last half of interviews based on several hundred pre-set questions while his memory is still fresh.

Doctors also are taking a bit of his time with another blood test and an electrocardiogram, but so far have found no definite changes from his pre-flight status said Dr. Ashton Graybiel of Pensacola, Fla.

JFK Pledges Urban Sooner or Later

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has torpedoed President Kennedy's plan to establish a Cabinet-level department of urban affairs. But he says there will be such a department "sooner or later."

He said: "I'm interested in the future of Kingston, not the past, and I can't see a bright future for this city if we allow "Broadway East" to go by default, or if we permit the blight that has developed there to spread to other areas."

Brothers Admit Federal Charge, Await Sentence

A 47-year-old Dutchess County man and his brother have pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing goods stolen in interstate shipment, it was reported Wednesday.

According to the U.S. Attorney's office in New York City, Leonard Troiano, 47, of Hopewell Junction, Town of East Fishkill, and his brother Frank, 50, of the Bronx, will be sentenced on April 4. They were arrested by FBI in raids last Oct. 26.

The men face sentences up to 10 years in prison, a $5,000 fine or both.

At the time of their arrests authorities estimated about $250,000 worth of stolen goods, including drugs and cigarettes, were recovered in a raid at Hopewell Junction.

Frank who has a summer home in Brinckerhoff near Hopewell Junction, was taken into custody in the Bronx. He was released in $15,000 bail. Leonard, who operates a sanitation service in the Town of East Fishkill, was arrested at a dump he operates. He posted $25,000 bail. (Continued on Page 10, Col. 6)

Bailey Blasts Foes

In a statement blistering the Republican party as "blindly obstructionist," Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey took no note of the heavy Democratic vote against the plan. If Democrats had gone down the line for the President's proposal would have gone through.

Battle Line, a publication of the Republican National Committee, again accused Kennedy of attempting "to cloud the issue with a cynical appeal to racial ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's move to advance the collection of some business taxes, and help balance his 1962-63 budget, was headed today toward Assembly approval.

The legislation, designed to keep the state on a pay-as-you-go basis, was passed unanimously by the Senate Wednesday despite Democratic charges it was "a gimmick—an out-and-out book-keeping device."

Rockefeller, in his budget message, proposed advancing the tax payment date of corporations and banks as one step toward closing a $140-million gap between normal revenues and spending.

The Republican governor hailed his record $2.6 billion budget as a continuation of his program of paying current expenses from current revenues.

By advancing payment dates, the $90 million from the two taxes would be collected during the fiscal year and applied to the budget.

Sen. Samuel L. Greenberg of Brooklyn, who led the Democratic attack, said the legislation demonstrated that "we do not have fiscal responsibility or intellectual honesty

Officers were elected for 1962, revised by-laws and constitution were approved, and committees reported Tuesday night at the annual meeting of the Kingston YMCA board of directors, trustees and members at large held at First Baptist Church, Albany Avenue.

Selected were Chester A. Baltz Jr., president; John R. Shults Jr., vice president and John H. Haulenbeck, treasurer. They succeeded themselves. Bernard J. Mizel was elected secretary.

For Fluoridation

80 Green Street
Kingston, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman

Rumor has it that a group of well meaning but greatly misguided and misinformed citizens are trying to block the fluoridation of Kingston water. These same types of people in years past are the ones who tried to prevent pasteurization of milk and vaccination against smallpox. Fluoridation is just one more step in our constant search for health improvement in this case, healthy teeth. The U. S. Department of Health and the N. Y. State Department of Health both agree that fluoridation is beneficial. Millions of Americans drink fluoridated water. (The ratio is one part fluorine to one million parts water.) Let's wake up.

432 Albany Avenue
Kingston, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman

There are many aspects of fluoridation that we should all be familiar with in order for us to approach this issue on a level for which it is intended.

One has only to look at the rising cost of water rents in the past ten years, and in view of the cities long range planning for our water needs in the next thirty years: So that any added program using our water as its basic requirement should be studied and looked at, in as one person called it, "A selfish view." The cost of such a program is not to be scoffed at, for it is not only the initial investment, but maintenance and replacement of such equipment. There are cities that have instituted this program and now have disbanded it because of the prohibitive cost of replacing equipment needs to carry out fluoridation.

The plight of the taxpayers has become so great that they should take the time to study the material made available to them so they can make a wise decision as to their course of action.

If this program is so effective, why don't the proponents of fluoridation subscribe to the bill system, which can be put into operation at one-fifth the cost.

Yours truly,

THOMAS LYLE

HOW WASHINGTON HANDLED IT

Once again we celebrate the birthday of George Washington. It's a good time to do it—not just because of the date, but because Washington may have something of value to say to us in light of certain current events.

Somewhat sinister charges that the military have been censored, or muzzled or otherwise hampered in their duty of keeping America strong in the face of its enemies have been under investigation by a Senate committee.

It seems to be agreed that speechmaking is part of the defense duties of officers. And all are agreed that military men, while in service, have no business getting involved in narrow partisan controversies.

The deeper question, however, is how far they may go in voicing sincerely felt disagreement with the broad aspects of government policies, and how far the government may go in controlling those criticisms before it infringes upon basic rights.

As in so many other things, George Washington set the pattern our history has followed in this field—not as president but as commander of the American Army during the Revolution.

A modern biographer, Douglas Southall Freeman, listed five rules which Washington followed in his often trying relations with the Continental Congress, to which he was responsible.

The first four dealt with such things as the Army's obligation to keep Congress fully informed on all matters not involving urgent military secrets; the Army's acknowledgement that it was "consistently subordinate" to the civil government; and prompt obedience to congressional orders.

It is the fifth rule that is most pertinent to us today. As Freeman wrote:

"There was to be no public criticism of Congress by Washington and no imputation of unworthy service. On the contrary, delegates were always to be credited with seeking the country's welfare and that only."

Undoubtedly, if Washington were alive today, he would broaden the rule to apply to the president, cabinet members and other officials of the modern government, as well as congressmen. And we would perhaps be amazed at statements that have come from certain quarters publicly questioning the loyalty or ability of high government figures.

To those who read the history of Washington's pleadings for something to fight with and the inept efforts of Congress to provide it, the conclusion is inescapable that it was the skill and nobility of purpose of this unusual general which kept the loosely bound parts of the Confederation from flying in all directions.

And it was, in great measure, Washington's example—his belief that the soldier is a civil servant, his willingness to impinge the best of motives to those who disagreed with him, and his distaste for the role of "man on horseback"—that kept the American Revolution from going the way of the French Revolution and so many others.

Whatever the shortcomings of either side—military or civilian—in the present controversy, it would be well for all Americans to keep George Washington's example in mind.

The government's worried about acquiring enough land to meet the people's recreation needs. If touch football catches on as the national game, a lot of playing fields are going to be needed.

POWERS FOR ABEL

There has been quite a bit of comment, both here and abroad, to the effect that the United States got much the worst of the deal when it traded Rudolf Abel for Francis Gary Powers. Though this may be true if the trade is considered merely at apparent face value, there are other considerations.

The Soviet Union got back a master spy, an extraordinary skilled espionage agent who had been at work in this country for

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE FUN OF COLUMNING

Columnists, like everybody else, have their headaches and backaches and their pleasures and excitements. We even make mistakes and sometimes do not catch them and chew the paint off a pencil in chagrin. We, who are supposed to know everything, are tripped by a coma or a wrong country or a chemical formula.

And then we wait for the world to blow up. Instead, a linotype-setter or a proof-reader catches the mistake and the wise man looks wise and the world wonders how so small a head can contain so much.

One works many hours and writes what he has to say, having spent much time and thought bringing it all together, only to receive a letter from someone who has not spent 10 minutes of inquiry, saying that the columnist is motivated by corruption, meanness, hatred and bitterness.

For instance, by and large, I have with more or less intimacy, seen or spoken with every President since 1930. With such a one as Herbert Hoover, the relationship has been close; with Harry Truman, it has been distant. But in my profession, a President is what we call copy and we get to know him, if for no other reason than that it helps to earn a living. So one gets a little hard-boiled as Westbrook Pegler or Walter Troutman might be. On the other hand, there are those who cannot say an unkind word about anyone, like Bob Considine, because he undoubtedly feels that the poor guy is trying to do a job and the breaks are against him.

But along comes the letter writer and says that you always hated everybody but now you don't hate Jack Kennedy, so you must be sick. Or maybe the Pope bought you. Or maybe Joe Kennedy gave you an automobile for Christmas. Or maybe you are just plain crazy with love.

Well, that is next to nothing compared with the fellow who writes that he hopes you will drop dead because you do not believe that Franklin D. Roosevelt was the greatest man since time began. Then the same hand-writing comes on a post-card and asks why if you were for Nixon, do you believe Eisenhower isn't the greatest man since time began? If we both live that long, seven years from now the guy will write me that Jack Kennedy was the greatest President since time began and so help me, I'll write back and settle for Theodore Roosevelt who started the whole business of racial equality by asking Booker T. Washington to lunch or something.

It is not that I am pessimistic about the human race but one wonders what is the good of everybody going to public school and high school and even college and reading newspapers and magazines if they end up unwilling to add a column of figures to discover that 1962 is not 1929 and that the human mind must adjust to its own mistakes. And most historic mistakes cannot be corrected except by war or revolution.

And that is another one! Every time I write about war, I get a flock of letters saying that I want war. One woman believes that I have a passion for war. What she does not understand is that my passion is against fools whose conduct brings war to this world.

It is not war that I have a passion for: rather it is human decency, a restoration of morality, an acceptance of moral law. This resurrection will not be accomplished by corrupt or perverted or cowardly retreat. Sure, it is possible to have peace at any price, even the price of slavery and the destruction of the soul of man to futility.

I have seen death and therefore know the job of life. It is a false assumption to believe that peace can be purchased by the sale of self-respect by a loss of the character of a civilization, by advocating false doctrines and by substituting fear for knowledge.

In this article, I have answered half a hundred letters from readers who will not recognize that all errors of man must be paid for in conduct.

Don't Overtreat Bellyache

If Simple Steps Don't Help

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In a preceding column I suggested self-treatments that could safely be done for relief of a mild, uncomplicated bellyache. Especially one that had been successfully treated on a previous occasion.

Here now are things you had best avoid for safety's sake:

Don't burn or freeze the skin of your abdomen. If surgery is later necessitated, the burn or frostbite may interfere with healing.

Don't take an emetic (mustard, ipecac). The effect may be too irritating or weakening.

Don't take a pain-killer (analgesic) other than aspirin or some related product. A more powerful analgesic, such as codeine or opium, may mask pain with a resultant delay in seeking and obtaining required surgical treatment.

Don't take more than a teaspoonful of any alcoholic beverage (gin especially). Larger doses, too, may have a masking effect.

Don't continue taking medications that may produce abdominal pain as a side reaction. Ask your doctor if you are in doubt. And immediately discontinue doses of cortical steroids (ACTH) that act like the narcotics in suppressing pain and that also favor perforation of any inflammatory process that may be going on under cover of your belly wall.

And, finally for present purposes, don't delay to call your doctor or go to his office if your pain persists despite self-treatments, if you have fever, if you feel seasick or begin to vomit, or if you are unable to obtain a bowel evacuation.

Before you see your doctor, help him help you by providing him with urine and stool specimens and with exact readings of rectal temperatures.

Be sure, too, that you can furnish the following details: What was eaten at meal preceding attack, time and character of last bowel evacuation, date of last and next expected menstrual period, the kind of medications taken before the attack and just what unsuccessful efforts have been made in your efforts to obtain relief.

In other words, try to behave like a witness on a stand. Give the facts as you know them. But let the judge and jury determine the question of guilt.

years before his capture. He may have special information tucked away in his brain, and the Kremlin may again use him to good advantage. The United States, in contrast got back a reconnaissance pilot.

Powers may, nevertheless, shed valuable light on questions arising from the U-2 incident. The more significant thing is that in this country individuals are of primary importance. Powers for Abel may not have been a good trade on a strictly pawn-for-pawn basis. But Powers is not a pawn; he is an individual meriting concern as such. The Russians may not understand this, but that's the way it is in America.

Another Emotional Feat: Laying of Atlantic Cable

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What do "firsts" really mean? Time was when Lindbergh was the first to fly alone non-stop across the Atlantic to Paris. Who remembers the year and that it took him thirty-three hours?

Today, it is routine to fly the Atlantic to Paris in seven hours. Maybe it soon will be routine for people to take a world cruise in the skies on Sunday afternoon and go around the earth in ninety minutes.

What, however, really compares with the sensational reactions of the American people to the feat of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn in circling the globe three times in one day? Probably the most thrilling moment the American people ever experienced previously was the announcement that a cable had been laid successfully in the Atlantic Ocean to Europe on Aug. 10, 1858, after repeated attempts had failed in prior years.

While the flight around the world by Col. Glenn doesn't immediately change the life of a single person here or abroad, the laying of the Atlantic cable affected at once peoples on both sides of the ocean. Prior to that time, it took many weeks to get a letter by boat to relatives in Europe and many more weeks to receive a reply. The anxieties that were felt when members of the family were ill can hardly be described even in retrospect.

Emotions Described

The most graphic statement of the emotions of the American people after the laying of the Atlantic cable comes from the pen of George Templeton Strong, a famous New York lawyer whose diary was published by the Macmillan Co. in 1952—a half century after his death. He wrote:

"August 10, 1858—Everybody all agog about the Atlantic cable. Telegraph offices in Wall Street decorated with flags of all nations and sundry, fancy pennants suspended across the street. Newspapers full of the theme and of the demonstrations the event has produced from New Orleans to Portland."

"Newspapers vie with each other in grandiloquence. Yesterday's Herald said that the cable—Cyrus W. Field—is undoubtedly the angel of the Book of Revelation with one foot on sea and one foot on land, proclaiming that time shall be no longer. Moderate people merely say that this is the greatest human achievement."

"Any concessions negotiated with the Common Market through GATT will then be renegotiated with other principal U. S. trading partners such as Canada, Japan and the Latin-American countries, under the principle of granting similar trade concessions to all most-favored nations."

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—As a teenager there were no visible signs to stamp him for future greatness.

His formal education ceased at 17. He was tall, raw-boned and subject to sieges of sickness.

His face was pock-marked, strong-featured rather than handsome. He was not clever or quick-witted, and some found him stupid.

Worked Hard on Faults

He had a quick temper, but worked hard to control it—as he did other faults he found in himself.

He was in turn a frontier surveyor, a farmer, a soldier more formidable for his determination than his tactical or strategic skill.

But at 57 this unlikely figure had become the greatest revolutionary leader of his century. He had freed his country from foreign domination, won worldwide stature, and been unanimously chosen its first president.

Although he owned vast acreage, he was "land poor" and had to borrow money—500 pounds—to finance the trip to his own inauguration.

"Any security you may best like I can give, and you may be assured, that it is no more my inclination than it can be yours, to let it remain long unpaid," George Washington wrote to a friend, Richard Conway of Alexandria, Va., early in 1789.

Seems Remote Today

George Washington seems remote today to many of us, lost behind the lattice of legend that fences him from us even as we honor him our tribute of latter-day awe.

He was a giant in a time of giants. Few lands in so short a period have produced such a cluster of gifted men as John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton, Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Paine, and many others.

Why did Washington, who lacked their divers talents, tower above them all? The realization of the true greatness of Abraham Lincoln came after he met a martyr's death.

But the superiority of Washington as the only leader who could lead them to victory in war and unity in peace was recognized by integrity, and a character steadfast and unshaken in the face of any trial.

What qualities did they see in him that made him indispensable?

Not Corrupt by Power

They were the same qualities that, as a teen-age boy, Washington painfully and self-consciously tried to develop—self-discipline, integrity, and a character steadfast and unshaken in the face of any trial.

He learned to command himself before he was summoned to command others. He molded himself before he molded a nation.

And no man in history was perhaps less corrupted by that strongest of wines—power.

As JFK Alternate

Dirksen Favors
Advance Public
Works ProgramBy JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's invitation for congressional critics of his anti-recession program to come up with one of their own prompted a Republican proposal today.

Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said that while he is not convinced present economic safeguards are insufficient, he thinks Congress might set up an advance public works program if it could order into operation in a recession.

Dirksen said that on the basis they were submitted, he is opposed to Kennedy's requests for standby authority to cut taxes and to trigger a $2 billion public works program if the economy turns sour.

"Maybe the safeguards we already have are sufficient to meet such a crisis," Dirksen said in an interview. "If they are not, then perhaps Congress should set up in advance a public works program of meritorious projects that could order started in such a situation."

The members of Congress are specially sensitive to conditions in their states and districts. They would know if and when such a program would be needed."

Kennedy told his news conference Wednesday that no one who looks at the four recessions since 1949 can say that nothing needs to be done toward combating future downturns.

Sen. Francis Case, R-S.D., said in a separate interview he doesn't believe Kennedy's public works program can be made workable. He said it "smacks very much of a $2 billion bag of sugar plums."

Sen. Homer Capehart, D-Ind., said Republicans will be ready with some sound, sane, practical programs when the President's proposals come before committee.

Dominican Under Emergency, Move
For Dictatorship

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The Dominican Republic was held under a state of emergency today as authorities clamped down on terrorists accused of trying to restore dictatorship.

President Rafael Bonnelly's government went into action as bands set fire to cane fields and sugar mills in the worst flareup since last month's abortive military coup was quelled.

Bonnelly ordered seizure of property belonging to members of the ousted Trujillo dictatorship, charging that his regime was menaced by a conspiracy from both the left and right.

Calling the state of emergency to "defend our incipient democracy," Bonnelly accused terrorists of following a plan aimed at "taking the country down the road to chaos or totalitarian dictatorship."

Slaying of Man

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — U.S. and British police joined forces today in an effort to trace the killer of an elderly man found bound and suffocated in a New York Y.M.C.A. last week.

British police concentrated their inquiries into the death of a 48-year-old Irish stowaway, Thomas O'Brien Conway, who was found hanged with a belt from a life jacket aboard the liner Queen Mary on a New York-London voyage.

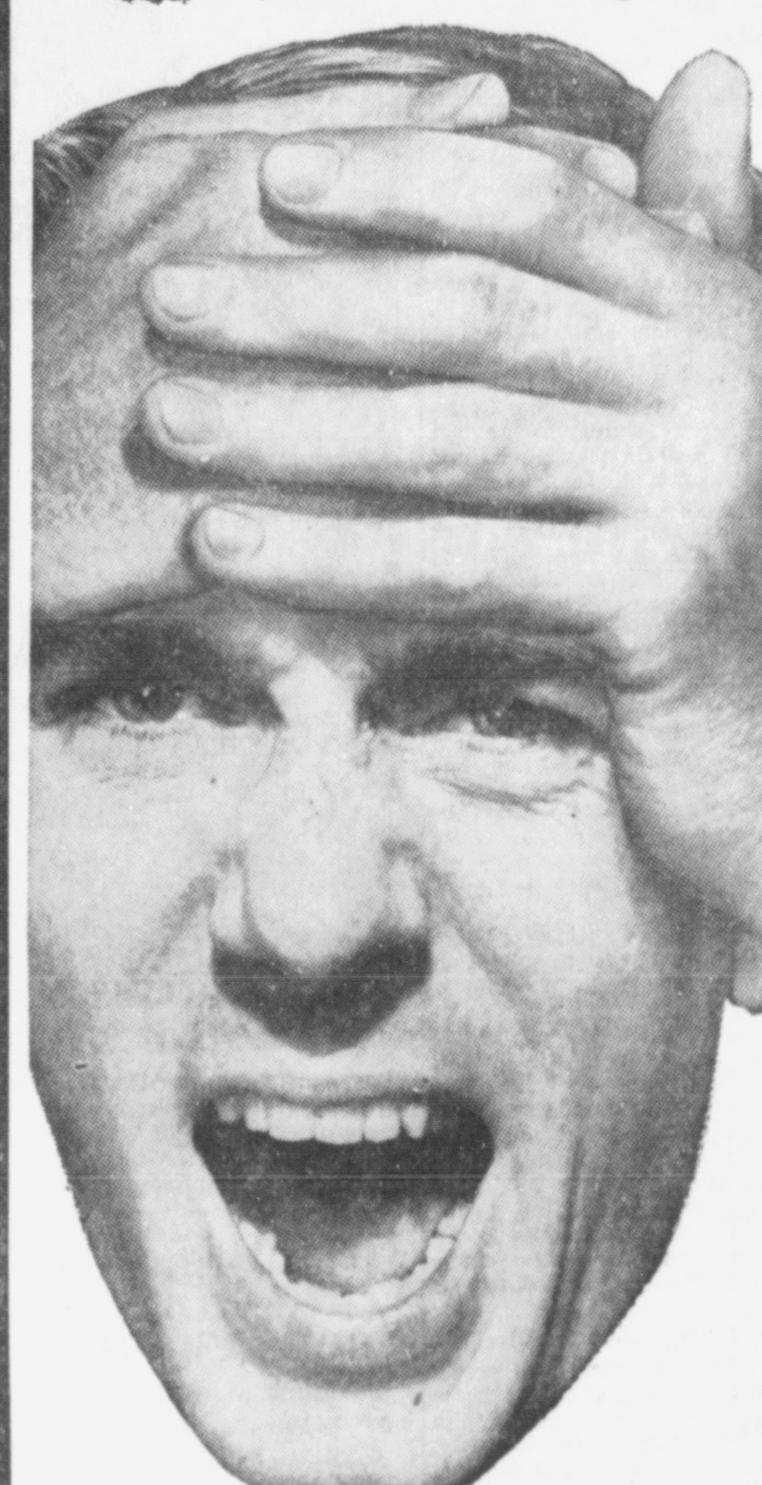

At the request of New York investigators, Southampton detectives went aboard the liner after it arrived here today to check whether Conway's death had any connection with the murder of egg dealer from Pine Bush—John Munro, 76-year-old retired egg dealer from Pine Bush, N.Y.

Munro was found dead last Thursday, the day after he had returned on the Queen Mary from visiting relatives in England. His ankles and hands were tied. A pillow case over his head had suffocated him. New York police said several compartments of his money belt had been rifled.

Astronaut Glenn to Get Welcome And Receive Space Agency Medal

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The high school band polished its instruments. The mayor prepared a special proclamation. The Chamber of Commerce readied a big red, white and blue "Welcome home, John" banner.

The nearby town of Cocoa Beach, which prides itself as "Spacetown, USA," was getting set to let go Friday with a big open-arms greeting to Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., first American to orbit the earth.

The joy was tinged slightly with disappointment.

Will Fly to Test Area

The townsmen had hoped President Kennedy would ride through on his way to greet Glenn at the cape. But word got around Wednesday that the President planned to bypass Cocoa Beach and fly right to this missile test center to give Glenn a medal and make a quick inspection before returning to Palm Beach.

Glenn is still on Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas, winding up a series of exhaustive checks in which doctors and psychologists are trying to gauge how he was affected by prolonged weightlessness and other phenomena of flight in space.

Condition Excellent

So far, Glenn's condition has checked out as excellent.

The astronaut's wife, two children, parents and in-laws were to head South today for their reunion with the Marine lieutenant colonel Friday.

And they were going prestige class—as guests of Kennedy on his plane bound from Washington to Palm Beach.

The President invited along Glenn's wife, Annie, their son David, 16, and daughter Lyin, 14; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Glenn Sr.; and Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Castor, Mrs. Glenn's father and mother.

From Palm Beach, the astronaut's relatives were due to fly here aboard an Air Force plane, with the President following on Friday.

Will Stay With Family

Kennedy will spend the weekend at the family's winter home at Palm Beach, Fla., visiting with his father, Joseph P. Kennedy. The elder Kennedy is recuperating from a stroke suffered Dec. 19. The President's wife and their two children, Caroline, 4, and John Jr., 1, flew to Palm Beach Wednesday in the family plane.

At his news conference Wednesday Kennedy called Glenn's mission a "magnificent achievement." The President said it goes "far beyond our own time and our own country."

"The success of this flight, the new knowledge it will give us, and the new steps which can now be undertaken, will affect life on this planet for many years to come," he said.

Cocoa Beach, which considers itself Glenn's second home, will show its feelings for him during a slow-moving motorcade which will carry the red-haired, green-eyed Marine war hero the 20 miles from Patrick Air Force Base to the cape.

Thousands Expected

Brevard County schools will be out. And thousands of persons from other central Florida communities, perhaps from even further away, are expected to flow into Cocoa Beach and line the broad highway that forms its main street.

Police Chief William M. Walker was bracing for a big traffic snarl, perhaps bigger than the one last Tuesday when about 55,000 persons jammed the beaches to watch Glenn's rocket take off.

Major Thomas S. Kennedy was drafting a proclamation of welcome to mark Glenn's return.

Glenn is due to reach the cape's own airfield about 15 minutes before the President's planned touchdown at about 10:30 a.m. There, they will meet again—Glenn visited the President this month.

Kennedy probably will look in on the ground control center, heart of the man-in-space operation, and see Pad 14 from which Glenn blasted off.

Medal to Climax Day

At Hangar "S," where Glenn prepared for his great adventure, Kennedy will present him with the space agency's Distinguished Service Medal—the climax of the end.

Next Monday, the Glenns will line up with the President again at Palm Beach and fly from there to Washington where this country's ranking space explorer will receive the thanks of Congress and the fullest possible honors.

Urban renewal can give this area a new lease on life. It can help restore it to the busy, productive section of our city that it was at one time. It can help provide more jobs for our people, and bring new blood into our economy and tax base.

Handwriting on Wall

And while you are thinking about downtown Kingston as it is today, think about our uptown business district as it may be 10 years from now if we treat it the same as we have our downtown section.

Today, our uptown business district carries the lion's share of the city's tax load, but I think the handwriting is on the wall.

Parts of North Front Street are beginning to take on the same seedy look of economic sickness that is common on lower Broadway. Even on Wall Street there is an empty store, and Wall Street is the heart of our retail district.

And what about the shopping centers sitting outside the city limits on three sides of town? Can uptown Kingston claim its share of the mid-Hudson retail market potential with modern new shopping facilities competing at all its borders?

I think it can. In fact it must. But we'll never make it without urban renewal uptown.

Needs General Facelift

Uptown Kingston needs much more than parking facilities for 250 automobiles. It needs a general facelift. It needs accessibility and traffic flow that can only be accomplished by new streets and workable traffic patterns. It needs off-street parking facilities for 750 more cars. It needs to be transformed into a convenient and attractive marketing center which can satisfy the demands of a motorized buying public that thinks nothing of driving 50 miles to do its shopping.

This city does not have the financial backing to accomplish such a task alone. Yet, if we spend $250,000 of city funds for parking under urban renewal, Kingston will receive $1,750,000 in federal and state funds for rehabilitation and renewal of the uptown area.

The space problem could prove different in one respect, at least. It arises from an area of competition between the Soviet Union and the Western powers and its military potential is large. But although military boosters and military men have figured in space achievements to date, space is not yet committed by either side to war-like purposes so far as any one here can say.

As Kennedy told reporters Wednesday, he considers it particularly important now to do something about securing the peaceful uses of outer space "because space becomes devoted to uses of war."

He followed up his news conference discussion of the problem with release Wednesday night of a message he had sent to Soviet Premier Khrushchev calling for a meeting at a very early date to discuss ideas for the cooperative development of space research and space projects.

Khrushchev earlier in the day had sent Kennedy a message of congratulations on the triple earth orbit by Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. and suggesting the two nations cooperate in exploring outer space.

Kennedy told the Soviet leader he was instructing his officials to prepare new and concrete proposals for immediate projects of common action.

Administration informants said that these would probably take the form of specific programs to teach objectives already set forth by Kennedy in earlier statements—such as the use of satellites for communications purposes and for weather research and forecasting.

The presidential plane, leaving from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., is to land at West Palm Beach, Fla., about two hours later. From there Kennedy will go to the Kennedy home at Palm Beach. The astronaut's family will be flown to Cape Canaveral where Glenn will arrive Friday from Grand Turk Island.

JFK Going Earlier

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today advanced by one hour—to 3 p.m.—his takeoff for Florida to visit his father and take the family of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., to its first reunion with the astronaut since his orbital flight.

The presidential plane, leaving from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., is to land at West Palm Beach, Fla., about two hours later. From there Kennedy will go to the Kennedy home at Palm Beach.

The astronaut's family will be flown to Cape Canaveral where Glenn will arrive Friday from Grand Turk Island.

At Hangar "S," where Glenn prepared for his great adventure, Kennedy will present him with the space agency's Distinguished Service Medal—the climax of the end.

The President will return to Palm Beach about noon, and Glenn then will face what promises to be a heavily covered news conference before he and his family go off on what a space agency official said will be a quiet week.

South Had Two Chances to Win

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

South looked at dummy and wished that he had restrained his enthusiasm and either passed at two spades or bid only three. However, he was in four and had to make the best of it.

West held the first club trick and continued the suit. South ruffed the third lead and saw that if he were going to make the hand, he would have to avoid the loss of a diamond trick.

No play was likely to work, but the two best chances were to try to pick up a doubtion queen or to play East for both the queen and ten. Both plays were about equal from a mathematical standpoint but the play for the queen-ten in the East hand had an extra chance for success.

Accordingly, South took a high trump, led to dummy's ten and played the jack of diamonds from dummy. East covered with the queen.

South won, then he led a trump to dummy's queen, fished the eight of diamonds, returned to dummy with the ace of hearts; led another diamond and conceded a heart trick.

What was the extra chance for success? Actually there were two. West might have a singleton ten-spot or if East held the queen and West the ten, East might make a mistake and not cover the jack.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) The nation's economy is stronger than you thought a few weeks back—this on the say-so of the Commerce Department.

And the yen to buy a new car will be stronger this spring than usual—this on the authority of a Federal Reserve Board survey.

The reassuring figures on the nation's total output, combined with the preview of consumer buying intentions in a significant field, could make for a happy spring, once winter's snows release their grip.

Might Be Related
The two reports might even be related. The sharp rise in output with its accompanying enrichment of personal incomes could be a big reason more Americans say they plan to buy a new car this spring.

And if the gross national product (GNP)—the dollar value of all goods and services produced—goes on rising in the first half of 1962 as the Commerce Department likes to think it will, consumer confidence could pick up strength fast. It often has grown sharply in the past once a gain gets under way.

See Pickup in Spring
The Commerce Department blames the bad weather for much of the leveling off in industrial and trade activities so far this year. It predicts spring will bring a good pickup.

And it has revised upward its figures on how we were doing in the final months of 1961. It now puts the GNP at a record annual rate of $542 billion in the fourth quarter of last year. And that is a hefty $41 billion more than in the first three months of 1961.

For the year as a whole, the GNP set a record at $321 billion.

compared with $504.4 billion in 1960.

It will have to expand considerably between now and summer to come up to the Commerce Department's expectations.

But the Federal Reserve Board survey of consumer intentions indicates the economy has a good chance of doing just that.

Don't Neglect Metal

Your Federal Income Tax can be purchased from your local Internal Revenue District office.

This booklet, the district director added, covers in detail the Federal income tax laws relating to individual taxpayers. It is written in non-technical language and contains many examples to illustrate the application of tax laws to real situations.

One interesting facet of the booklet is the sample filled-in Form 1040. If you have a problem in preparing a particular part of your income tax return for 1961, just turn to the sample. This sample return is keyed to pages in the booklet where the items on the return are explained in detail.

will be held during February and March. Theme of this year's conference is "Show Me Your Faith." The Eastern Area includes the New England states, eastern Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia.

E-B Day Program Support Is Urged by Area Chamber

A large attendance at the annual Education-Business Day program on February 28 was today urged by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce. A special appeal was made to parents and taxpayers.

The Chamber of Commerce made a special mailing to over 500 members today, including a copy of the detailed program. E-B Day was arranged by the Kingston Consolidated School System at the request of the Board of Education and Earl F. Soper, superintendent of schools, the body will divide into six separate discussion groups or panels, each one of an important phase of school operations. A large number of citizens of the entire school district are opportunity to meet members of the Board of Education and those in charge of administration and teaching; hear them tell briefly about operating several major phases of school activity and ask those in charge specific questions.

All those attending will meet in the auditorium of the George Washington School promptly at 8 p. m. After brief remarks by George W. Schneider, president of the Board of Education and Earl F. Soper, superintendent of schools, the body will divide into six separate discussion groups or panels, each one of an important phase of school operations. A member of the Board of Education will be the discussion leader of each group. From four to seven persons directly responsible for that phase of school activity, will be present to answer questions. A recorder, each directly connected with a local news media, will take notes at each panel and report back to the entire assembly at 9:30. This will be followed by light refreshments in the George Washington School Cafeteria.

A Chamber of Commerce spokesman stated that E-B Day is an excellent program to find out more about our school system, so important to the future welfare of our community.

The six discussion groups will include the following six subjects, all of vital interest: (1) "Reading in our schools" on the elementary level, (2) The School Curriculum, grades 7 through 12, (3) School Finances, (4) The Special Services now available to all students, (5) Vocational Education programs and (6) Physical Education.

In releasing this information today it was suggested that those planning to attend submit question in advance, if possible, by leaving them at the Chamber of Commerce office or calling the office. The questions would then be turned over to the discussion leader of the appropriate group.

Chamber Advises Early Study of Insurance Bills

The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce today urged favorable consideration of two bills pending before the State Legislature in Albany both dealing with one phase of unemployment insurance. The Chamber suggested that affected employers write to our elected representatives, Assemblyman Kenneth J. Wilson and Senator E. Ogden Bush; also Assemblyman Willard Drum, chairman of the Assembly Labor Committee and Senator Daniel G. Albert, chairman of the Senate Labor Committee.

These bills favored by the Chamber of Commerce are Number S. I. (Senate) 391 and A. I. (Assembly) 1936. The purpose of these bills is to eliminate duplication of private pension benefits and unemployment insurance.

The Chamber of Commerce believes that it is bad policy and unfair to employers, to make employers pay for unemployment insurance on top of employer-financed pensions for retired employees, or that part of the pension which is attributable to the employer. The offset provided for would only apply to unemployment insurance benefits chargeable to the employer who provided the pension.

This is the first of a series of releases by the Chamber of Commerce dealing with State legislation and the improvement of the business climate to encourage industrial expansion and the creation of more jobs.

Along Capitol Corridors

By ROBERT T. GRAY
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's stand that "I must oppose a bonus for Korean veterans" was a re-assertion of Republican leadership that had been lacking in the 1962 legislative session.

The legislators apparently felt that enough political credit would accrue to all in the payment of $100 million to 500,000 veterans, most of them now married.

Rockefeller and GOP legislative leaders, anxious to avoid election-year friction and problems, had taken an extremely cautious approach to government affairs.

Tried to Keep Hands Off

As the Korean-bonus issue was developing into a major political and governmental problem, the governor kept insisting it was one for the Legislature to decide and he did not intend to become involved.

The legislative leaders, Sen. Walter J. Mahoney and Assemblyman Joseph F. Carluo, referred to the issue as one to be decided eventually in the top councils of government.

But the bonus was becoming a run-away issue among legislators, and the apparent indecision of the top three leaders left them without the customary guidance.

Several lawmakers pledged to veterans' organizations in their home districts that they would back the bonus this year.

Democrat Critical

A Democrat complained when other lawmakers from his district, all Republicans, issued a pro-bonus statement without asking him to add his name.

Five Republican senators, who had sponsored individual bonus bills, agreed to a joint bill that would bear the impersonal name of the Senate Rules Committee.

Present, Former County Heads12 Indiana Men Facing Tax Count Arraignment

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP)—Twelve present and former Lake County officials will be arraigned on income tax charges in U. S. District Court Saturday.

The defendants include Mayor George Chacharis of Gary, Sheriff Peter Mandich and five members of the 1955 Hammond City Council.

Seven indictments were returned by a federal grand jury here Feb. 7 but were sealed then at the government's request because Metro Holovachka, former Lake County prosecutor, was on trial then on charges of evading $32,000 in income taxes.

Announcement of the indictments followed Holovachka's conviction early Wednesday. Several of those indicted had testified for the government at Holovachka's trial.

Chacharis, 54, was accused of receiving $226,686 in payoffs from construction companies and failing to report them on his tax return for 1955-58.

The indictment that named Chacharis also charged Harold Zweig, 41, Gary city engineer, with failing to report $19,573 for 1956-58 and accused four other men of obstructing the government's attempt to collect taxes from Chacharis and Zweig.

The four are Mandich, 46; John Diamond, 40, chief of the Gary auto license branch; Peter Chacharis, 38, the mayor's brother, and William Chulock, 45, an accountant with offices in Chicago.

The five members of the Hammond City Council in 1955 were charged with failing to report a total of $13,000 allegedly received from the Missouri Dredging Co.

They were identified as Arthur L. Bradburn Jr., 34; G. Homer Wolf, 48; Elmer Rose, 53; Adolf Hitler Swiomentek, 55, and Nicholas Gasparovic, 48.

A separate indictment charged George Pavol, 60, retired Gary city traffic engineer and police captain, with failing to report $6,851 for 1955, 1956, 1957 and 1960.

Tax Cut Out For Now: JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says that for the present there is not a chance of a tax reduction.

As for the future, he told a news conference Wednesday that barring a recession and with a continuation of the present tax structure, "a tax reduction in a few years or in a period of time might be possible."

Fear 100 Dead In Bogota Crash

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—A shattering collision of a passenger train and a freight train between Cali and Buenaventura was believed today to have taken a score of lives.

Unofficially, it was reported the death toll may be close to 100.

Authorities were attempting to confirm reports that the passenger train carried cadets of a naval academy in San Diego, Calif., who arrived in Buenaventura Wednesday aboard the ship Golden Bear.

First reports indicated at least three cars of the passenger train were demolished. Officials said the train was jammed with passengers, and it was believed there were about 100 people in those three cars.

Nearby towns urgently dispatched medical assistance and other aid to the scene.

The passenger train was out of Buenaventura and the freight train started from Cali. The cities are in the western part of the country.

way things are going in New York City, with the propaganda on sour milk, it is cutting down on consumption of milk."

Dairymen argue milk-dating creates a psychological barrier to milk sales and is obsolete.

While Rockefeller met with the dairy leaders, the Assembly in Albany was set to give final legislative approval to the bill reining in milk dating.

Will Act on Aid

At a Lincoln Day dinner Wednesday night, Rockefeller said the 1963 Legislature would act on proposals to increase state aid to localities.

The governor said that he had proposed an 11-member committee to study aid to municipalities and that the committee's report would form the basis of the action next year. Approximately 1,500 attended the dinner.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, only Democrat in state-wide executive office, is backing legislation that would increase per capita state aid by $54 million a year. The future of the bill in this year's legislature is dim.

Rockefeller, in addition to meeting with dairy leaders, will tour plants and projects in Utica, Rome, Oneida, Herkimer and Little Falls, as well as appearing at luncheons and dinners before ending his election-year tour Friday.

Carlino Is Cleared

pany director to interfere with his duties as speaker. Carlino resigned from Lancer Industries Inc., a week after the shelter law was enacted on Nov. 9.

Lane contended the committee had not been thorough enough in considering evidence and testimony he said supported his change.

Covered Everything

Defending the committee, Chairman Donald A. Campbell, R-Amsterdam, said it had "very definitely covered all the ground required to be covered." Campbell said the four-man bi-partisan committee had expected that its report "would not be greeted with very much satisfaction by Mr. Lane."

On his return to the Assembly, Carlino was greeted by Acting Speaker Paul Talbot, R-Ortigia, who shook Carlino's hand and returned the gavel.

In a businesslike tone, Carlino said, "We are all here to conclude the very serious and important work of this legislative session."

Still before the Assembly is an Ethics Committee recommendation that the state code of ethics be revised to allow lawmakers to engage in normal business activities without risking unintentional involvement in a conflict of interest.

Last Ditch Try*Algiers Is Swept By Violence, SAO Attacks Kill 11

ALGIERS (AP)—A wave of terrorist attacks swept Algiers today as the right-wing Secret Army Organization made a last-ditch effort to wreck an impending French-Algerian agreement to end the 7½-year rebellion.

Police reported more than a score of scattered attacks between 7 a.m. and noon, as European gunmen in cars and afoot fired at Europeans and Moslems, killing at least 11 persons and wounding 15.

The violence erupted as the Algerian rebel National Council was called into session in Tripoli to act on an agreement with France to end the strife.

The 60-member parliament was expected to give the needed four-fifths approval to the accord paving the way for Algerian independence, a measure already endorsed by France.

Entitled, "You Don't Have to Retire Completely to Get Social Security Benefits," the leaflet explains changes in the law recently enacted by Congress which raise the amount an older worker can earn and still collect some benefits in addition to his earnings.

Older working people, made eligible to collect some benefits because of these changes, will need to get their applications on file before the end of March 1962, according to George J. Johnson, district manager of the Kingston Social Security Office. Otherwise, they stand a chance of losing some of the social security payments now due them.

He cited the example of a couple who would be entitled upon application to a monthly check of $180, about the maximum now payable to a retired worker and dependent wife.

Under the law in effect until the beginning of this year, Johnson said, this couple could not be paid any benefits for the year if the husband's earnings exceeded $2,080. Under the new law, his earnings could go as high as $3,610 before the couple would have to forego all of their social security benefits.

A retired worker with no dependents, entitled to a benefit of $74 (the average now being paid) could earn about $2,300 in a year and still get some of the benefits.

Many older working people in the area serviced by the Kingston office have not yet applied for their social security benefits, Johnson noted. He said that many of them may not realize that their earnings are at a level which will now permit them to get some payments.

Some others may be under the impression that if they earn more than $1,200 in a year, they cannot collect any social security benefits. This is not so, he said.

Another thing many people don't realize is that regardless of their annual earnings, a social security beneficiary can be paid his benefits for any month he does not earn more than $100 in wages nor work in self-employment.

The social security district manager suggested that working people 65 or over who have not yet applied for their social security benefits write or phone his office to get a free copy of the new leaflet, "You Don't Have to Retire Completely to Get Social Security Benefits." The leaflet describes the provisions of the law in simple words and also contains a table to help the older worker estimate how much of his benefits he can collect if he earns over $1,200 a year.

Greek Girl Gets Bird

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Greek girl with a patched up heart visited Caroline Kennedy and came away with a china bird. Caroline wanted to give her a real one but couldn't catch it.

But any bird in hand is better than an uncaged canary doing loops in the White House playroom. At least 11-year-old Chrysanthemus Papacotsis was just as well pleased.

Chrysanthemis—"Memi" for short—went to the executive mansion Wednesday to meet Mrs. John F. Kennedy who had arranged for her to fly from Greece to undergo heart surgery Feb. 1 at Walter Reed Hospital. The First Lady had heard about her condition while visiting in Greece last year.

Rail Heads, Top Union Men Meet On Merger Plans

ALLEN HARBOUR, Fla. (AP) — Heads of two of the nation's largest railroads were reported here today to confer with labor union leaders hotly opposed to merging the two lines.

Union sources said that Alfred E. Perlman, president of the New York Central and James M. Symes, board chairman of the Pennsylvania Railroad were coming here to talk with rail union chiefs in an attempt to win their agreement on the giant railroad consolidation.

The railroad unions have been regularly letting off steam in claiming the NYC-Pennsy merger

Wrong on Isolation, Excellent on Suspicion

Father of Our Country Batted .500 in His 1796 Foresights

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The world today—or maybe just some of the people in it—would confuse even George Washington.

This nation, celebrating the 230th anniversary of his birth, is honoring him for many things while still proclaiming an event which this week demonstrated both his foresight and his lack of it.

Orbit Proves Point

This was Tuesday's triple orbit of the earth by Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., who, by traveling 81,000 miles in a few hours, showed how much closer the nations are than they were in Washington's time.

The Russians not only joined in praising Glenn but Premier Khrushchev, in a congratulatory note to President Kennedy, suggested America and Russia pool their resources to conquer space.

Kennedy, full of pride in the astronaut but also thinking of the future, reminding Khrushchev he had proposed cooperation in the past, said it would be fine and that he'd try to figure a way of bringing it about.

But, while Khrushchev was saying nice things to Kennedy out of one side of his mouth, and never mentioning Washington, his newspaper Izvestia was praising Washington and denouncing America's "rulers."

Says Heritage Trampled

The newspaper said "the facts show that the current rulers of the United States have trampled the great heritage of the founder of independent American government."

"America today is the strong hold of warmongers, war and colonialism."

But if Washington were President today—judging from his final advice to America—he'd show a lot less responsiveness than Kennedy to Khrushchev's proposal to collaborate on overcoming space.

In his farewell address in 1796 Washington warned his countrymen against getting tangled up with Europeans.

He said: "Why, by interweaving our destiny with that of any part of Europe, entangle and involve us in the toils and European ambitions, rivalships, interest, humour, or caprice?"

Made Sense Then

This made sense then when it took weeks to sail to Europe and the Atlantic Ocean was America's greatest protection against Europe.

It made sense, too, to other Americans for more than a hundred years in which they took Washington's advice and stayed out of European alliances.

But after two world wars—and the development of planes and missiles which made the Atlantic look no larger than a ditch and Europe right next door—Washington's advice was found to be out of date.

He might be astonished, if he were alive today, to find the United States, so confidently remote, isolated and safe in his time, now not only a member of the United Nations but in alliances around the world.

It was either line up with allies or watch communism take over the rest of the earth. So on this point—the belief that America would remain isolated—Washington lacked foresight.

But his foresight was excellent—and still valid—in being suspicious about entanglements. There was a lot of soul-searching in this country before it became allied at all.

But suspicion of making deals with Russia has never subsided. Nothing illustrates this better than the Kennedy-Khrushchev proposals about cooperation in space. No such cooperation is anywhere in sight.

The United States and Russia, because of their suspicion of each other, so far not only haven't been able to cooperate in space but still haven't been able to cooperate on earth.

Parent-Teacher
Dental Aid Fund
For Fluoridation

The Parent Teacher Association's Dental Aid Revolving Fund unit is the latest to come out for fluoridation of the city's drinking water, it was disclosed today.

The Fund on Wednesday night sent a resolution to the Kingston Board of Water Commissioners approving fluoridation. At the same time the Council announced that it would conduct its annual Founders Day Monday, Feb. 26, in the high school cafeteria.

A highlight of the meeting will be the presentation of a Life Membership Award to a person outstanding in the promotion of the children's welfare. The award will be sent in the name of the recipient to the Jenkins Scholarship Fund, National Congress of Parents and Teachers. This year teacher grants of $500 will be given elementary teachers who apply.

Former winners of Jenkins awards include: retired Fire Capt. Edward H. Albrecht, Mrs. Dorothy Buehring, Mrs. Helen Gilkey, Miss Anna Devine, Miss Louise Van Wagener, Keron O'Neil and the Board of Education.

A business meeting following the presentation and presided over by Mrs. Thomas Maines, president, will discuss reports of standing and nomination committees and the Fluoridation Study Group.

The Resolution

The resolution sent by the Dental Aid Revolving Fund to the water commissioners stated that this committee was formed solely to aid families not on welfare yet unable to afford complete dental care for their children and that it has been established that the fluoridation of water supplies reduces tooth decay in children by approximately two thirds and would thus prevent much severe pain, many extractions, more extensive dental care and much expense for all families.

The resolution further stated the safety of fluoridation has been demonstrated through a series of extensive studies and fluoridation has been endorsed by all leading medical, dental and scientific organizations.

The P.T.A. Council Dental Aid Revolving Fund Committee endorses the fluoridation of water supplies in the city and requests the Board of Water Commissioners to take favorable action.

Space Triumph
Topic at Rotary

William Rooney of the public relations department of the New-York Telephone Company took members of the Kingston Rotary Club on a trip to outer space in a timely illustrated talk Wednesday at the service club luncheon-meeting.

In an enlightening discussion of the space age, the speaker outlined the progress that men have made down through the years in breaking the shackles of gravity that have tied them to this planet. He also explained how the ingenious engineering program produced a rocket-capsule combination in which a man can ride safely into space and return despite the gravity pull during exit and entry in the atmosphere and the heat generated as the craft returns to earth. He further discussed the development of the worldwide satellite communications system and functions and operations of men and machinery in the historic journey of Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

Program Chairman Joseph Benjamin announced that next Wednesday the program would be devoted to urban renewal.

Kingston Rotary Rural-Urban Night will be held at the Hurley Reformed Church Hall Wednesday, March 21.

Not in Same Direction
WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices producers got for fluid milk and prices consumers paid for it did not move in the same direction last year.

The Agriculture Department reports that fluid milk prices averaged $5.43 a hundredweight last year, down 5 cents from 1960. But the average price paid by consumers in major markets for home delivered milk was 26.8 cents a quart, or four-tenths of a cent above the 1960 average.

The department also reported that the number of producers in 76 federal and five state marketing areas under regulation declined 2 per cent in 1961.

Jones Goes Home
After Surgery on Torn Knee Cap

The Ulster County March of Dimes Chairman, Addison Jones, 67, of Kingston has returned to his home at 334 Foxhall Avenue, from Kingston Hospital where he underwent surgery for a torn knee cap suffered in a fall on ice at his home a week ago today.

The well known dairyman and former Republican candidate for mayor injured his leg and shoulder when he slipped on the ice about midnight Thursday, Feb. 15 as he stepped out of his garage after coming home from working. His cries alerted neighbors who called Mrs. Jones and she assisted him into the house. He was ordered to Kingston Hospital by Dr. Arthur H. Hazenbush where Jones underwent surgery for his damaged knee cap. X-rays disclosed no breaks in his shoulder, but he suffered strained and bruised ligaments.

He was returned to his home on Tuesday, but must go back to the hospital next week for further examination and treatment.

Steel Talks Continue

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Top-level negotiating teams continue talks today in an effort to reach agreement on contracts for some 430,000 basic steelworkers.

The chief negotiators, David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers Union, and R. Conrad Cooper of the U.S. Steel Corp., said at the end of Wednesday's talks that discussion still is centered on local problems and overall economic matters.

Returned to Hospital

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A former mental patient who sheriff's deputies said apparently attempted to kill her three children and herself has been returned to Marcy State Hospital.

Deputies said Mrs. Janet Mc Cord, 33, slashed the children and herself with a knife and then turned on gas jets, setting off an explosion in their suburban Westvale home Feb. 13.

State Held to Blame

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The husband of a patient at a state mental hospital has been awarded $12,745 because of her death by suicide.

The Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court held Wednesday that the state was responsible for the death of Berta Herold, 51, of Grahamsville, Sullivan County, who hanged herself with a dust cloth at Middletown State Hospital in 1963.

Adenauer Denies Bid

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer insisted today, after unfavorable reaction from President Kennedy, that he had never suggested an East-West foreign ministers conference on the Berlin crisis, the Foreign Ministry reported.

A spokesman said the 86-year-old chancellor took the position it was only a Western foreign ministers conference he had spoken of and the trouble in Washington resulted from distorted news reports.

Seeks Mahoney's View

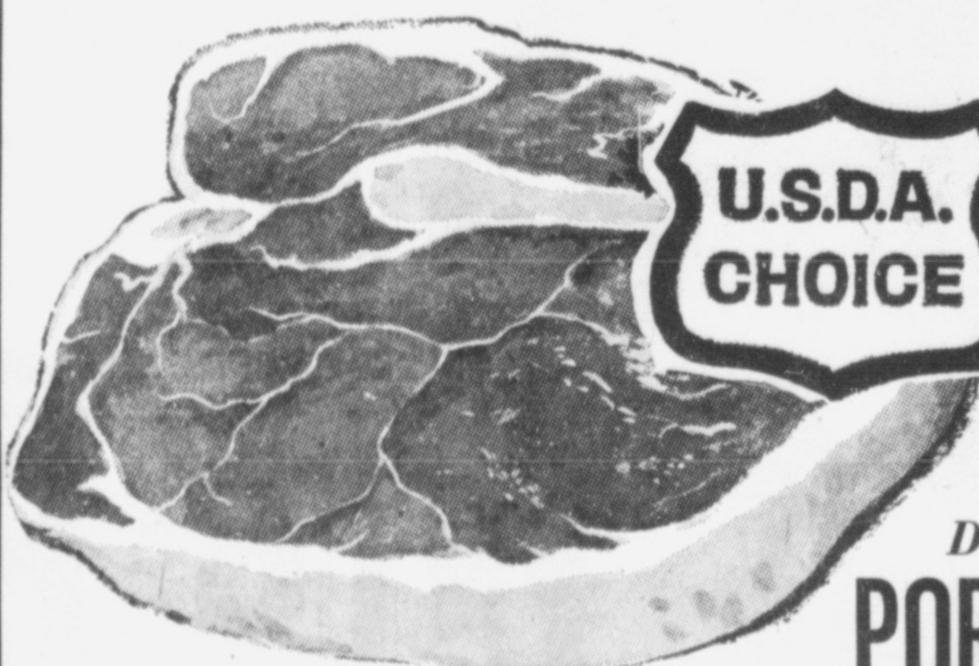

NEW YORK (AP) — The executive committee of the State Medical Society seeks a meeting with State Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney and ask him to spell out details of his plan for free medical examination and treatment for school children.

Bid to Rocky:
Stratton Urges
Definite Stand
On School Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, only announced candidate for the democratic nomination for governor of New York, says Republican Gov. Rockefeller "has the opportunity to put up or shut up" on the school aid issue.

Stratton, of Schenectady, said in a statement Wednesday it now is up to Rockefeller to demand a good state aid for education program from the Republican-controlled state legislature.

Stratton noted that Rockefeller announced he was not completely satisfied with a committee-recommended formula for state aid. The committee recommended an increase in aid, but retained property taxes as the measure of aid to schools.

Rockefeller had said that other factors should be taken into account in computing the amount of aid needed by a district.

Stratton asked, "Does he intend to use his executive power to bring in a good bill, or is this just more of his pious talk that is to be followed by inaction?"

Age Bias Bills Introduced for A. G.'s Office

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz today sought from the Legislature power to initiate legal action in cases of discrimination because of age.

Bills were introduced on behalf of Lefkowitz that would allow the attorney general to bring the suits on behalf of the State industrial commissioner or the State Commission Against Discrimination.

Lefkowitz said the measure would close a gap in the state's laws against discrimination which, while defining discrimination, failed to give the attorney general power to prosecute a violation.

The bills were introduced by Sen. Henry M. Curran, R-Nassau, and Assemblyman Dan Becker, R-Orange.

Reaction to Public Hearing Shows Keen Public Interest

Several major objectives of Woodstock's Growth Plan may have to be re-evaluated in the light of tremendous opposition by local residents. This is the general reaction to Tuesday night's tumultuous public hearing at Town Hall.

There was also widespread dissatisfaction with the format of the meeting, which prohibited direct questioning of the Planning Board members. A majority of those present felt the meeting should have been a free-wheeling question and answer session.

J. C. van Rijn, Planning Board chairman, defended the procedure, saying that such formats are often followed in public hearings. Two staunch critics of virtually phase of the Growth — attorney John Egan and Eugene Ostrow — questioned the legality and propriety of the proceedings.

In conjunction with the proposed Route 375 by-pass and other feeder routes, the Planning Board was accused of proposing the destruction of very things it was supposed to champion, such as preservation of Woodstock's scenic beauty, residential atmosphere and property values.

Phabias Holmstock of Lake Hill, who shares ownership of a 100 acre plot designated as an industrial area on the Growth Plan in Lake Hill, said he and his neighbors settled there to have privacy and unparalleled scenic surroundings. He said he could not reconcile the choice of the site for industrial purposes with the Planning Board's avowed purpose of preserving scenic beauty of the township.

Reverse Policy

Mr. and Mrs. John Bertschy of Country Club Road recalled the great clamor against cutting down trees in Woodstock. "Now they propose to pull down buildings," they said. Describing the proposed by-pass as ridiculous, they said it would destroy many high priced properties in one of the most beautiful residential areas in the township. "There must be other places to put this road," they said. Their sentiments were echoed by several, including Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sanger, Earl Holumer, Mrs. Beryl Spencer, B. Sturtevant Gardner, Mrs. George Laws, who presented the petition, Alex Sharpe Jr., and many others. Sharpe warned that an offer by Mrs. Fred Dana Marsh to establish an art museum in the lower Ohayo mountain road might be rescinded if the by-pass is built.

Ainslie (Pat) Burke, local artist, said he understood the proposed sewage plant would be installed about a third of a mile above the property recently deeded to the town for recreational purposes by Mrs. Zulma Parker. It is known as The Big Deep. For psychological purposes alone, Burke said he felt the plant should be removed from the swimming area to a far more suitable location, a statement that drew a large chuckle from the audience.

Sidney Slayton of Lake Hill said the 5 per cent limit set on road grades was too stringent and that he had seen buildings on roads up to 15 per cent grade.

Kingston on Pan

Mrs. Joan Brown may have reflected the feelings of many persons in the audience when she wondered out loud if the Growth Plan was designed to accelerate the growth of the township by 20,000 persons or if it was the

League Article Is Corrected

Due to a typographical error in the League of Women Voters article on Court Reform, Tuesday, the intent of the last sentence was garbled. It should have read: "... urge all League members and all interested voters to write to Sen. E. Ogden Bush and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson to let them know that those of us who supported Amendment No. 1 last fall expect that it will be adequately implemented during this session."

The League article had deplored failure of the legislature to implement the amendment up to this point.

Pittsburgh's Milk Price Is Assailed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A milk marketing expert says Pittsburgh's 28-cents-a-quart price for home-delivered milk is "silly" in such a high production area.

Testifying Wednesday in the third day of the State Milk Control Commission's public hearings on types of containers for gallon sales, Dr. Roland Bartlett, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Illinois, criticized milk prices in this area. The hearings continue today.

"Twenty-eight cents is a silly price in an area such as this, which has a tremendous milk surplus," he said. He added later that he favors abolishing state price controls.

As for the glass gallon jug sold at a discount price of 96 cents, Bartlett said that "if Pittsburgh were to have a distribution as efficient as that in Boston, the retail price per gallon to the consumer would be 76 cents instead of 96 cents."

He noted a growing market in powdered milk and dairy substitutes and warned that the dairy industry must offer a high quality product at a low price if it wants to survive.

The hearings center on a commission ruling that milk may be sold in gallon containers at the 96-cent discount price only in glass jugs.

Country Belle Cooperative Farmers, Inc., has challenged this ruling by attempting to market milk at the same price in two half-gallon plastic cartons linked together.

On this point, Bartlett said, "A dealer should be able to sell milk in paper or glass in a controlled market at the same price. There is no justification for a glass paper price differential."

The Greater Pittsburgh Dairy Industry Association claims that a gallon cannot be marketed profitably in plastic cartons for 96 cents.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Woman's lot in television this past season has been such a dreary one that actress Inger Stevens is excited about a chance to play a nice American girl in a comedy.

It is well-known that most pretty, blonde actresses yearn for chances to play disreputable harlots and mad women the way comedians dream about "Hamlet."

But after a most active season during which Miss Stevens has appeared in just about all of the popular filmed television series, she grabbed an opportunity to co-star in Sunday night's CBS special, an adaptation of Maxwell Anderson's good-tempered comedy about a nice young couple, "Saturday's Children."

"This season I've played nothing but accents," said Miss Stevens sadly. "I've played Germans, Swedes, Romanians and Mexicans. I think it's nice to play an American girl. I've played spies, fallen women, sick woman and murderesses. I think it will be wonderful to play a good girl in a comedy."

NBC will now have its moments with the nation's First Lady. On March 25, the network will present "The World of Jacqueline Kennedy," and even now a camera crew under the direction of producer Eugene Jones is working in the White House.

The hour-long program, fifth in a series, will use still photographs, film clips and interviews with friends as well as film made in the White House to tell the story of the President's wife.

After CBS made its recently aired "Tour of the White House," the program was shared, at White House request, with the other two networks. With Mrs. Kennedy such a personal hit in that show, one wonders if NBC will be able to hold onto its exclusive.

All television networks will continue their intensive coverage of the man-in-orbit story, from Lt. Col. John H. Glenn's meeting with President Kennedy to his press conference later on.

Recommended tonight: "CBS Reports," 10-11 (EST)—"Thunder on the Right," a report on the growing conservative political movement in the country.

Four Community Consumers Will Reap BenefitsLower Electric Rates Are Due For Niagara Power Customers

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Moses, chairman of the State Power Authority, says there will be an annual saving of $151,300 from lower electric rates for three Upstate municipalities and a rural electric cooperative.

The authority announced Wednesday that it had approved lower rates for four consumers of power from the Niagara project.

Those benefited are Groton, Tompkins County; Marathon, Cortland County; Endicott, Broome County; and the Chautauque-Cattaraugus Electric Cooperative.

Moses listed these results of the lower rate schedules:

1—a reduction of 21.6 per cent in Groton for an estimated saving of $38,600 annually or 37 per cent of present wholesale power costs—$28,200 will be passed on to customers in the form of lower rates, and $10,400 will be used for additions and improvements in the electric system.

2—a reduction of 16.9 per cent in Marathon for an estimated saving of $23,800 of 42 per cent of the present wholesale power costs—$13,900 will be passed on to customers in the form of lower rates, and $9,900 will be used for additions and improvements of the electric system.

3—a reduction of 11.3 per cent in Endicott for an estimated saving of $82,000 a year of 40 per cent of the present wholesale power costs—of which $32,000 will be passed on to customers in the form of lower rates, and $30,000 will be used for improvements and additions to the electric system.

4—lower power authority rates to the cooperative will result in an annual savings of $3,900 which will be used to keep present rates and not to raise them 7 per cent as had been recommended by the Rural Electrification Administration.

Says Voters Have Right to Decide

Following is a copy of a letter sent by Eugene De Dea to the Kingston Water Board in regard to the fluoridation of the City of Kingston water supply:

110 Madison Avenue
Kingston, New York
February 20, 1962

Mr. Donald R. Hyatt, President
City of Kingston Water Board
Kingston, New York

Dear Sir:

In the past few days, there have been many items appearing in the press and, also, talk on the radio in reference to the fluoridation of water in the City of Kingston. In one or two instances, it was stated that, due to the lack of technical knowledge, the public should be excluded from trying to arrive at any definite conclusion as to whether this poisonous chemical (Sodium Fluoride) should, or should not, be used in our water system.

I believe that, if the public were told all the facts about fluoridation that they would have no great problem in determining whether they wished the water fluoridated or not.

Dr. Robert Newton, who holds degrees from leading universities in Canada, the United States and Britain, is a recognized authority on chemistry and agriculture and has held the high posts of Director of the Biology Division of the National Research Council of Canada, Director of the Alberta Research Council, and President of the University of Alberta.

Dr. Newton has stated: "It is evident that many of the most distinguished medical and scientific authorities are opposed to artificial fluoridation. This is the more significant when it is remembered that most of those who claim to favor it have not made any deep study or investigation, but merely accept the going 'line' of its promoters; whereas those who are opposed to it have arrived at their conclusion only after independent study and examination, and in spite of the popular pressures of the Establishment."

Dr. G. L. Waldbott has said in part in a letter published in Ladies' Home Journal "A new disease is now appearing throughout the country. It is poisoning from drinking artificially fluoridated water. I already have the records of 42 cases. It is characterized by severe pain and stiffness of the spine, brain damage, lack of control of arms and legs, certain stomach disturbances, and failing eyesight. Leading specialists could find no cause for the symptoms in these patients. Yet, in every case, elimination of fluoridated water cured this disease completely. These symptoms are identical with what has been described in foreign medical literature as beginning fluorine poisoning."

"This disease is man-made by U. S. Public Health officials who are entrusted with guarding your health. They have been told about this disease, but they have neither investigated it nor shown an interest in these patients. Instead, they move heaven and earth to deny that the disease exists."

"Fluorides can be administered in many ways, individually and inexpensively to those who desire them. For example, in tablets, drops and by local application to the teeth. Would it not be wiser for those who are convinced of its benefits to partake of it individually instead of adding it to the drinking water?"

I feel very strongly in the belief that the voters and citizens of any community have the right at all times to decide through a referendum.

Very truly yours,
EUGENE DE DEA

Health Problems In County Cited At Lions Meeting

The problems of public health occasioned by a rapidly expanding population are present in Ulster County, Miss Esther Schisa, director of Public Health Nursing for the county told the Kingston Lions Club at its regular meeting.

Suburbanization, the expansion of its service, and decreased recruitment of personnel are three factors making the local problems more challenging, according to the speaker. She stated that maternal and child health programs, due to the influx of young families and the large increase in the number of newborns, are particularly important here. The need for prenatal clinics is particularly important.

The effectiveness of increasing visits to the homes where there are newborns resulted in a rather dramatic decrease in the number of positive cases of staphylococcus infection from 1960 to 1961 in this county. The decrease in number was from 40 positive cases to three, Miss Schisa noted.

Increased demand for home visits has been occasioned by the increase in chronic disease cases, along with the shortening of hospital stays by these patients. Miss Schisa indicated that there is a need for some type of housekeeping service in connection with chronic disease cases, as well as some form of home care.

An increase in the demand for nursing service is showing up in the matter of mental health. Follow-up care for patients discharged from mental hospitals is indicated. A key position that needs to be filled in the mental health area is that of psychiatrist, according to Miss Schisa.

The necessity for precautionary measures in the field of communicable disease is always present, and the speaker expressed some disappointment in our county's record in the matter of immunization. The record of school-age immunization "on a complete basis," according to the speaker is 62.8 per cent. She feels that the percentage should be closer to 80 to 90 per cent. "Ulster County's tuberculosis record is third worst in the state, putting us just behind the Buffalo and Syracuse areas," Miss Schisa said. Last year saw 38 new cases being discovered here.

Miss Schisa praised the local public health nurses as being "well-qualified," with excellent training and educational backgrounds. "The extent of their service in the past year might be measured, at least in one way, by the fact that they made 18,000 home visits to residents of the county," the speaker said.

The speaker was introduced by Ulster County Commissioner of Health Dr. Franklin Hall, a member of Kingston Lions Club. Dr. Hall outlined an impressive record of service, including two and one-half years as an Army nurse, a bachelor's degree granted by Syracuse University and a master's degree at Columbia. Miss Schisa is rounding out over 12 years of service to Ulster County, according to Dr. Hall.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The ingenious housewife who can think of the most interesting ways to serve eggs is the one best equipped to take advantage of shopping specials this weekend.

They're cheaper in almost all stores.

Most stores feature large eggs as the best buy on a per-pound basis. Prices are expected to continue low with a heavy hatch.

Chicken ranches provide another bargain at many counters in the form of fryers and broiler fryers.

Also in the poultry line, turkeys continue attractive buys with one national chain featuring large birds at 29 cents a pound in its New York stores.

There are good bargains in red meats varying over the nation.

In the Northeast, beef steaks and rib roasts are features, with hams and other pork cuts continuing reasonable. In the Southeast, both steaks and roasts are good, buys and bacon is the pork feature. Midwestern stores feature steaks and hamburger, also ham and bacon. In the Southwest, veal is particularly attractive.

Vegetable counters show little change from last week, with potatoes still budget prices, squash and broccoli featured and cabbages, lettuce, carrots, spinach, tomatoes and radishes also plentiful.

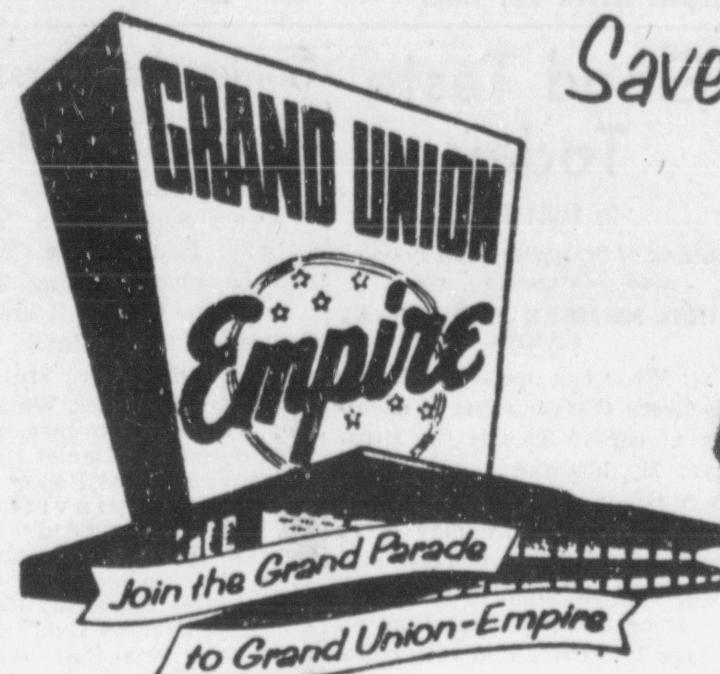

Apples and grapefruit remain the stars of fruit bins with oranges, lemons and avocados regional bargains.

Hudson Valley Philharmonic Group to Give Concert on March 2nd at New Paltz College

Claude Monteux, flutist, Helen Baldwin, pianist, and four members of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra will present a concert in the College Union Lounge of the State University College, New Paltz, Friday, March 2, at 8:30 p. m.

The event was announced by Dr. Victor Landau, associate professor of music and will be jointly sponsored by the Humanities Division and Joint Activities Committee of the College. All persons may attend free of charge.

The program will include the Mozart Quintet for piano and wind instruments, a classic for this combination, and music for wind quintet by Haydn, Milhaud, Hindemith and Gunther Schuller.

The Milhaud work is a series of charming vignettes entitled La Chemine de Roi Rene in the crisp, quasi-folkloric vein of the most honored of modern French masters, now living in the United States. The great German modernist, Paul Hindemith, will be represented by Klein Kammermusik, a witty, sometimes biting and sometimes tender work which dates from the early 20's. Gunther Schuller's Suite presents this avant-garde, jazz-influenced American composer in an attractive but thoroughly modern statement.

CLUB MEMBER CHEATS AT CARDS

Q: What can one do when one discovers that someone is cheating at cards? This is the situation: My husband and I belong to a poker club. There are six of us in all and we play every other week. I have been suspicious of one man in the group for some time; the last time we played I watched him very closely and there is no doubt that he does cheat. I don't know that the others in the group are aware of this, but, now that I know, I feel most uncomfortable playing with him. This is a most distressing situation and I don't know what to do about it. I am hoping you can offer a helpful solution to this problem.

A: You hardly need be tactful to a man who cheats at cards; but if you do not wish to be the one to denounce him, you and your husband will have to find some plausible excuse, other than your real reason to resign from the club.

Q: I was divorced many years ago and, at that time, discarded my wedding and engagement rings as I wanted no part of them. My engagement ring was a very beautiful one and has been in my safety deposit box all this time. My son is soon to become engaged and I would like to know if it would be proper for him to give this ring to his fiance, instead of having to buy another.

A: It is not a question of propriety but of the personal feelings of the bride-to-be. If she is willing to accept this ring with its past unhappy history, there is no reason why he may not give it to her.

Q: When writing thank-you notes for flowers and other personal kindnesses sent at the time of a bereavement, must they be written in black ink? Someone told me that black ink is the only proper ink to use for such notes. Will you please tell me if this is true?

A: If paper with a black border is used, black ink is correct; but if jet black is not available, that known as blue black is permissible.

Fitzgerald Novel
Called 'Wayward
Mixture' as Play

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP)—A novel is a novel is a novel. Hardly ever a play.

And that is the basic misfortune of "This Side of Paradise," which found its fitful way Wednesday night to the arena stage of the Sheridan Square Playhouse.

Characters and episodes have been extracted from one of F. Scott Fitzgerald's noted accounts of the 1920 jazz generation, but adaptor Sydney Sloane, a young lady who also takes a leading role in the play, has had to leave nearly all substance and meaning behind on the bookshelf.

Episodic scenes—there are 16 interspersed with some symbolic interludes—traced the days and dilemmas of a snobbish youth who loses fortune, girl and most of his ideals on the way to final curtain with toy balloon.

Paul Roebing manages the taxing assignment with handsome persistence, but hasn't much opportunity for probing depths. The 19 other players come and go in far shorter roles with uneven results.

A novel aspect of the staging by director Herbert Bergman is the use of a leopard-clad couple, Moss Cohen and Julie Arenal, to move props and shift the dramatic mood to the accompaniment of canned music that includes both Wagner's "Liebestod" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band." A rather wayward mixture all around, "This Side of Paradise."

58-54 Victory Keeps Sawyers In DCSL Race

Saugerties High kept alive its DCSL pennant hopes Wednesday with a 58-54 victory over a stubborn Arlington Central quintet on the Saugerties boards.

The come-from-behind win was the 12th in 16 starts for Coach Buddy Smith's Sawyers who had to win this one—or else.

Had Arlington won, the 1961-62 DCSL title would have gone to Roosevelt Central. Now the Sawyers can put themselves back into the pennant scramble by beating Roosevelt at Hyde Park Friday and winning at Wappingers Falls Monday.

Bill Schirmer's layup shot broke a 54-54 tie in the last four minutes and Saugerties held on for the win. The star forward tied with Doug Mills with 15 points and had 22 rebounds and five assists.

One Big Period

Saugerties rebounded with a 20-point second quarter after trailing, 15-8, in the first period. They led by as much as 11 points in the third quarter, but Al Hrdlicka fouled out with two minutes left.

The Sawyers led 43-37 going into the final quarter and the teams battled each other virtually even the rest of the way. Mills fouled out with two minutes left to play.

Hrdlicka racked up 14 points before bowing out in the third quarter. Arlington had three players in double figures: Baetens 15, Horvath 14 and Fabian 13. The Dutchess County cagers have a 9 and 8 record for the season.

Saugerties shot 33 percent from the field with 24 for 72, while Arlington was 18-57 for 32 per cent. From the foul line it was Arlington 18-29 and Saugerties 10-20.

Rochester Tops Alfred, 75-58

The University of Rochester and Buffalo University came from behind Wednesday night to beat their college basketball hosts.

Mike Berger's two scores in the last minute of overtime gave the Rochester Yellowjackets a 75-68 victory over Alfred. Rochester has won 14 and lost 3. Alfred is 9-10.

Buffalo raced from behind to down Wayne University, 70-65. Buffalo's Bill McEvoy had 21 points. Wayne's Freddie Prime had 35 points, 25 in the first half.

In another dramatic game involving Upstate New York teams, John Hewes dropped in a layup as the final horn sounded, to give Ithaca College a 67-65 victory over visiting Hartwick.

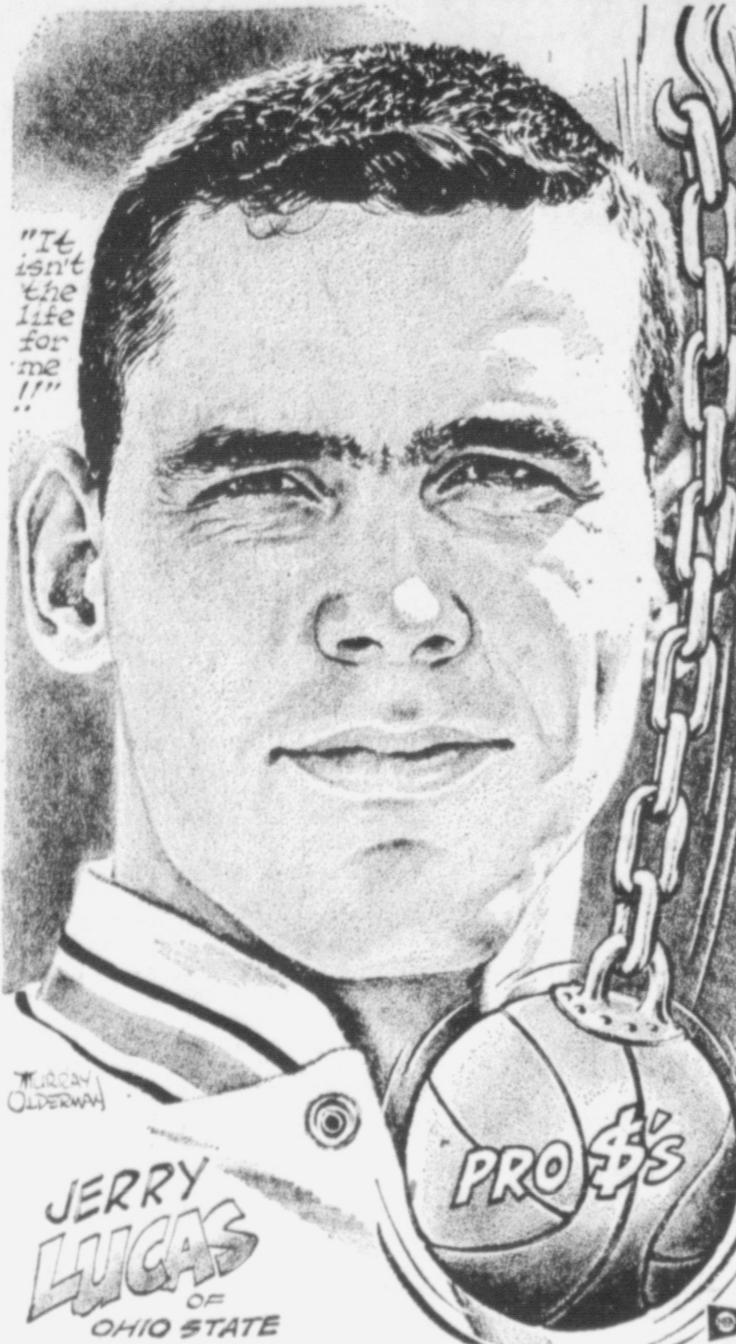

Ithaca thereby avenged a previous 65-63 victory by Hartwick for a season mark of nine victories and seven losses. Hartwick is 7-12.

In other games:

Hobart dropped visiting Rensselaer Poly, 51-42, for its third victory. Hobart has lost 10. The Engineers are 5-11.

Oswego State won its 16th game in 18 starts with a 81-53 conquest of Potsdam State. Potsdam is 7-9.

12-Year-Old Jersey Youth Hailed as Skating Wizard

By WILL GRIMSLY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States never had a figure skater so good at such an early age."

"Pound for pound, the toughest competitor who ever stepped on the ice."

"A sure bet for the Olympic crown in 1964."

These are the lofty estimates heaped on 12-year-old Scott Allen of Smoke Rise, N. J., by his coach, Fritz Dietl, as the two make preparations for the world figure skating championships at Prague, Czechoslovakia, March 14-17.

"The only thing wrong with Scotty is his age," Dietl, an Austrian who once skated with the great Sonja Henie, added today. "Judges just can't believe a kid so young can be so good, so they kid downgrade him."

Allen, runnerup to Monty Hoyt, 17, of Denver in the recent U.S. championships at Boston, is the youngest skater, boy or girl, ever to carry this country's colors in the world tournament. Carol Heiss was 14 when she made her first world title bid.

Scott is a good-looking, curvaceous youngster who stands only five feet and weighs a bare 97 pounds. His father, Frank Allen, is a wealthy industrialist, descendant of Ethan Allen. His mother, the former Sonja Fuhrman, was twice figure skating queen of Sweden.

She started Scott on the ice when he was just a year old.

Young Allen says figure skating is both "work and fun."

"I skate because I like it—no one is twisting my arm," he added. "My ambition is to win the Olympics in 1964."

Cepeda is believed to be asking about the same. The San Francisco slugger led the National League with 46 home runs last season, and had 142 runs batted in and a .311 average.

He has returned an unsigned contract calling for about $40,000, a 33-1-3 per cent increase.

Two of the top players to come to terms Wednesday were outfielder Frank Howard and pitcher Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers. Each received a boost. Howard signed for about $16,000, Koufax for about $25,000.

Some of the others were pitchers Jim Maloney and Johnny Klippstein and catcher Darrell Johnson of Cincinnati; pitcher Billy Hoeft of Baltimore; catcher Carl Sawatski and first baseman Frank Leja of St. Louis; older Howie Bedell of Milwaukee and relief pitcher Bobby Bolin of San Francisco.

The slate of officers designated by the nominating committee is unopposed and assured of election. They are: president, Alex Perles of Shaker Ridge CC; first vice president, Richard Demarest, Stamford CC; second vice president, Gerald Massia, Troy Country Club and secretary-treasurer, Eugene J. Fitzpatrick, Wolfsburg Roost.

Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr. of Wiltwyck, who was recently elected president of the Hudson River Golf Association, is to be re-elected to the Board of Governors.

The other Board nominees are: John Hausen, Albany CC; David Crane, Antlers; Thomas La Clair, Clinton CC; James Ferris, Berkshires Hills; William L. Schwartz, Colonie; Clinton Traver, Columbia; Nicholas Mazzatorta, Edison; George Purdy, McGregor; Davis L. Shultes, Normanside; William H. Evans, Pine Brook; Dr. Hugo Isabella, Pine Haven; H. Law Weatherwax, Red Hook; George Shattuck, Rutland; Fred J. Murray, Van Schaick.

Ganders Stay In UCAL Race on 54-36 Victory

Rondout Valley Central bolstered its chances for a tie for the UCAL championship, by trouncing New Paltz High, 54-36, Wednesday night at New Paltz.

The Ganders, who rolled to their 14th victory in 17 games, can tie for the title by beating Marlboro at the Rondout School gym Friday night.

Despite some anxious moments in the first half, Coach Meehan's Ganders were in command all the way. They led 24-21 at halftime and 35-28 going into the stretch. A 13-point final quarter eased the Ganders to their decisive win.

Eight of the 11 players used by Rondout crashed the scoring column, with Jim Brush setting the pace with 14. Lynn Johnson potted 12 and Ernie Quick with 9 were other leaders.

Ken Freer rimmed 16 points for the losers and Elwood Osterhoudt tossed in nine.

Dayton Flyers Accept NIT Tournament Bid

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Dayton, perennial also-ran in the National Invitation Tournament, will take another crack at the elusive title.

The Flyers were named to the 1962 NIT Wednesday, making it six teams in and six to go for the New York basketball postseason classic. A few hours later they marked their selection with a 78-67 home court victory over Memphis State, running their record to 16-6.

Dayton has competed in nine of the last eleven NIT's and has been the beaten finalist no less than five times. For this year's tourney at Madison Square Garden, March 15-24, the Flyers go into a field that so far includes defending champion Providence, Loyola of Chicago, Duquesne, Houston and St. John's of New York.

Basketball's other big post-season affair, the NCAA, did not pick up any new entrants but did announce the sites for three first round games. On March 12, Arizona State University's Border Conference champions will meet the Skyline Conference representative at Tempe, Ariz., and Air Force Academy will play the Southwest Conference winner on the latter's floor. On March 13, Oregon State and Seattle will tangle at Corvallis, Ore.

Deacons Clinch Tie

Wake Forest clinched at least a tie for regular season first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference, coming from behind in the final 10 minutes and beating North Carolina State 69-62.

Providence slew seven points of an eight-point lead in the closing seconds but hung on for a 76-73 victory over St. Joseph's (Pa.) in the windup of a doubleheader at Philadelphia's Palestra. In the opener at Philadelphia, Lafayette won for the first time in 26 games and protected its Middle Atlantic Conference lead with a 73-69 upset of LaSalle.

Duquesne ended a three-game losing string and Pitt scored a surprise at the Pitt Field House. The Dukes overwhelmed Georgetown 72-52 and Pitt upended Temple 71-65.

Bowling Green's Mid-American Conference champions smothered DePaul 83-51, zipping away to a 16-13 lead and coasting in.

Western Kentucky, champion of the Ohio Valley Conference, outpointed Xavier of Ohio 53-48 in a torrid second half shooting display beating the visitors 88-83.

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's Democratic leadership weighed the prospects today of a battle for the party's nomination for governor at the May 15 primary.

A score of top policy makers were invited to a meeting in an upstairs room of the Democratic State Committee headquarters—the third, and probably the last, such meeting to hammer out final agreement on a slate.

The results of the meeting will be forwarded to a session of the full 72-member Democratic Policy Committee in the Capitol's House Caucus Room Friday afternoon.

Heckscher Mentioned

NEW YORK (AP)—The White House may soon have a cultural coordinator on its staff.

Mentioned for the post is August Heckscher, director of the Twentieth Century Fund, a research organization that subsidizes studies involving economic and social questions.

Heckscher was not immediately available for comment, but his wife said Wednesday night that he had conferred with White House officials and had been invited by President Kennedy to take the post.

Kysirike Burglaries

Two breaks in the Kysirike district early today are under investigation by troopers from the Ellenville State Police Barracks. The intruders went through a side window to get into the office of The Cross Co., a lumber concern, and made off with a few pennies and two cartons of cigarettes. They got into the Shawangunk Cooperative Dairies, Inc., through an unlocked sliding door and took only two screw-drivers, according to Troopers Michael Mahoney and Joseph Houston.

Urges Dog Owners, Secure Licenses To Avoid Penalty

Town Clerk Vincent Gaffney today requested the cooperation of all Town of Lloyd dog owners, asking them to secure licenses for their pets before February 28, in order to avoid civil penalty actions as required by the Agriculture and Markets Law of the State of New York.

Gaffney reported that the dog enumerator, James Casabura, had listed 928 dogs as being owned by residents in the Town of Lloyd. So far, only 645 licenses have been purchased for 1962. Therefore, 283 dogs are presently unlicensed and their owners are in danger of having to pay costs and penalties in addition to the normal license fee unless proper licenses are secured by February 28.

The list of owners of unlicensed dogs must be sent by the Town Clerk to the New York State Department of Agriculture by March 1. Section 113 of the Agriculture and Markets Law then requires that a civil action for the recovery of a $10 penalty be commenced in the Justice's Court of the Town against those dog owners who have failed to secure licenses. Under certain circumstances, unlicensed dogs may even be seized and destroyed.

The cooperation of all dog owners in purchasing 1962 licenses before February 28, advised Gaffney, will avoid embarrassment and unnecessary expense in the future.

Mentioned for the post is August Heckscher, director of the Twentieth Century Fund, a research organization that subsidizes studies involving economic and social questions.

Heckscher was not immediately available for comment, but his wife said Wednesday night that he had conferred with White House officials and had been invited by President Kennedy to take the post.

Blizzard Warnings Up, Rain Pelts Southeast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More stormy weather battered wide areas in eastern half of the nation today, with snow in northern sections and heavy rain, hail and strong winds in the South.

Blizzard warnings, with snow and strong northerly winds sweeping out of northern Alberta, Canada, were posted for eastern sections of Montana and Wyoming, the Dakotas and extreme western Nebraska.

Miss Glennie M. Wager

MODENA—A food sale will be held Saturday from 10 a. m. to 12 noon, at Wager's Store, Modena. Mrs. Wilda Palen is chairman of general arrangements. Orders are not being taken, as in previous sales.

Mrs. Fred Bernard observed a birthday Sunday, Feb. 18, and was guest of honor at a dinner at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Lare and family at Gardnertown, during the day. Twelve relatives and friends attended.

Miss Maxine Lofink spent several days at her home here, recently, during mid-term examinations at the State University College at Plattsburgh, where she is a student.

Mr. Vivian Daunt, president of the Wallkill Parents' Club, announces that all Parents' Clubs in the Wallkill Central District No. 1, may attend a meeting Thursday, March 1, at 8 p. m., at the Wallkill School auditorium. Dr. Esther Morgan of the State University College at New Paltz, will speak on Reading.

Storm Hoppers Cleanup

The cleanup operations throughout the snow belt were sharply curtailed as the new storm swept out of the Rockies and dumped up to a foot of snow in some Midwest areas. The snow covered sections in Pennsylvania, New York state and southern New England, ranging up to more than six inches in many places. Heavy falls were indicated in northern New England.

The rain belt extended across the Upper Ohio Valley, the middle and southern Atlantic Coast and the central Gulf Coast states. Freezing rain sliced roads in parts of Pennsylvania and northern Virginia.

Below zero weather again was reported in the Dakotas and in northern Maine.

Early morning lows ranged from 12 below zero in Dickinson, N.D., and Huron, S.D., to 75 in Key West, Fla., and Brownsville, Tex.

Snow Over Wide Areas

The snowstorm which swept across the Midwest into the Northeast Wednesday continued in many areas during the night and morning. Heavy snow warnings were issued for parts of Lower Michigan and most of New England. Snow continued across wide areas from the Mississippi Valley eastward to the Atlantic Seaboard.

Heavy rain pelted most of the Southeast, with unofficial falls of 3 to 6 inches in a three-hour period in Macon, Ga. Water was reported two to three feet deep in low-lying areas and some homes were flooded.

The Weather Bureau issued a warning of possible severe thunderstorms with hail and strong winds and possibly tornadoes for extreme east-central Mississippi, most of west-central and east-central Alabama and extreme western part of west-central Georgia.

The new snowstorms forced the closing of schools in many parts of the Midwest, as well as in some eastern sections, including North Carolina which reported snow measuring 5 to 6 inches in mountain areas.

Major assignment of the 440-pound laboratory will be to measure X rays and gamma, ultraviolet and infrared rays streaming toward earth from the sun. Those potentially deadly particles are absorbed or distorted by the atmosphere and thus are prevented from reaching earth.

Scientists feel the rays and the directions in which they travel hold clues to the origin and history of the solar system. They also may help show how the sun controls our weather, interferes with communications and alters the composition of the globe-circling radiation belts.

FDR Memorial Vetoed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Fine Arts Commission has turned down a contemporary design consisting of eight towering concrete slabs as a memorial to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The design, the arts group said, was too big for its setting, lacked repose and would compete with, rather than supplement, other memorials that would surround it.

IRS Expands Telephone Service for Tax Data

Telephone service for federal tax information has been expanded this year, local District Director James A. O'Hara announced today.

Special telephone lines are open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., Monday through Friday.

There's little waiting except perhaps during the lunch hour when most calls are received.

Use of telephone service helps both the taxpayer and the revenue service, O'Hara added. It's free from interruption and distraction and best of all, the taxpayer doesn't have to wait in line to get his tax information.

The local tax office in Kingston Main Post Office, Broadway, will be open Monday and Friday 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. to aid taxpayers with their returns.

Astronaut Stamp Sold Out in Area, Covers Available

The four-cent stamp commemorating the first orbital flight of a United States astronaut is issued Tuesday, simultaneously with the completion of the flight of John Glenn was sold out locally the next day, according to Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk.

A total of 20,000 in the first day issue were sold out and more are expected to be available at the Kingston Post Office on Friday, he said.

First day covers are also available to collectors by writing to Washington, D. C.

The stamp portrays a capsule in space with a portion of the earth in the lower left corner of the design. The wording "4c U. S. Man In Space" is superimposed over the globe and "Project Mercury" is across the bottom of the stamp.

The 4-cent Project Mercury commemorative stamp is .84 by 1.44 inches in dimension, arranged horizontally, printed on the Giori presses in blue and yellow on white paper and issued in panes of 50. An initial printing of 100 million has been authorized.

This stamp was released at 300 of the larger post offices throughout the country immediately upon the successful conclusion of the flight. However, the official first day cancellation will be Cape Canaveral, Fla., a temporary station of the Cocoa, Fla., post office, being established for the one day.

Provision has been made for collectors to obtain envelopes bearing the new stamp with the cancellation "Cape Canaveral, Florida," the date and hour of recovery of the capsule, and the wording "First Day of Issue," from the Philatelic Sales Agency, Post Office Department, Washington 25, D. C., at one cent above the face value of the stamp involved. Thus the cost of a cover bearing a single stamp will be five-cents, a block of four 17-cents.

Orders to the Philatelic Sales Agency for these special covers must include no other issues and outer envelopes should be endorsed "4c Project Mercury Covers," to expedite service. Orders for first day covers should not be sent to Cape Canaveral.
